PRESIDENT'S RAILROAD WAGE PLAN FAILS

Holt Elected City Schools Head

SUPT. F. O. HOLT TO BE NEW HEAD OF CITY SCHOOLS

BOARD OF EDUCATION
UNANIMOUSLY SE-LECT HIM.

JANESVILLE MAN

Now Superintendent of the Edgerton Schools Where
He Has Made Name
Famous.

Frank O. Holt, now superintendent of the schools at Edgerton, has been elected superintendent of schools at Janesville.

This action was taken at a meeting of the board of education Thursday, and the vote for Supt. Holt was unanimous.

As the term of the present superintendent, H. H. Faust, expires with the present school year, the board has been looking around for some time to find a suitable man to fill the position.

Careful Canvas Made.

After a careful and thorough investigation of the available live school executives in the state, the Janesville school board was unanimously of the opinion that Mr. Holt was the man for the position. He has had the position him. While he has not definitely accepted, his favorable answer is expected within a few days.

The new superintendent is a Janesville product, born and reared here. In 1902 he was graduated from the Janesville high school and in 1904 from the Milwaukee Normal school. In 1907 he was graduated from the Wisconsin State University with honors. He has since taken three summers of post-graduate courses at the University and one summer at the Chicago university.

A Leading Educator.

His experience as a trained teacher includes four years at the head of the Sun Prairie schools, and for the last nine years has been superintendent of the schools at Edgerton. He has more than made good there and enjoys the reputation as one of the best school men of the state. He is a man of pleasing personality, a strong and able educator, an executive of rare ability and a fine wife.

Edgerton, April 2.—Supt. H. H. Faust, of the School for the Blind, as a successor of Supt. Faust, was denied today in a signed statement by all the members of the school board.

Superintendent Faust has not yet completed his plans for the future.

Washington, April 2.—Officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks announced today that members of the organization would not return to the docks to work with men serving on the Norfolk and Western railroad at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Local officers said members of the organization would refuse to work on trains manned by strikebreakers.

N. D. Maher, president of the railroad, announced that it is international and local representatives of the striking employees would meet with railroad officials late today in an effort to settle the strike.

Officials of the road said that partial reports indicated that about ten thousand employees had walked out at various points.

WOMEN ARE SCORED
FOR MODERN STYLES
BY NOTED JESUIT

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, April 2.—Revelling ranks in women's gowns were vigorously assailed in a sermon recently by Rev. Bernard Vaughan, widely known Jesuit father whose essays and sermons on morality and home life are for the past few years attracted great attention throughout the world.

"In days gone by ladies dressed for dinner, now they undress for it," he declared. "Women's clothing ought to serve the three purposes of decency, of warmth, of ornament." A woman in her mad craze for what is known as "emotional gowns," is against every canon of good taste. Such dresses are impractical, unhygienic and repulsive. They are expensive. Girls who follow the up-to-date fashions are ruining their own and their neighbors' souls as their own bodies. Designers of fashions seem to be devoting much of their time to pleasure."

HOOVER'S ENTRY STARTS MOVEMENT OF THE PEOPLE

REPUBLICANS WHO HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR THE MAN ARE IN LINE.

CLUBS FORMED

Organizations Outside of the Politicians in Many Sections of the Country.

Herbert Hoover's entry into the field as a candidate for president on the republican ticket has created a sensation in the politics of Wisconsin. Except for the activities of Gen. Wood, not much had been done to stimulate ten thousand residence in the way of organization. Many scouts from the different headquarters have come to Janesville. Gen. Wood has a representative here in the person of Judge Maxfield, who is vice-president of the state republican convention of Wisconsin. Governor Lowden has had an emissary here looking over the field. A newspaper man from the Washington Herald which is supporting Mr. Hoover for the presidency made a trip to Janesville last week. But there has been no other work done so far as can be stated.

Hoover Starts Something.

But the announcement that he was a republican and would accept a republican nomination made on Tuesday by Mr. Hoover started a new chapter in Wisconsin politics. The police club was organized and launched on Wednesday night.

The mercury fell about 30 degrees from yesterday's maximum to 10 degrees above zero this morning. While the snowfall was unusually heavy, the high wind accompanying it impeded railroad and city traffic considerably.

Duluth reported that the blizzard there was sweeping ice out of the harbor, giving promise of an early opening of lake navigation.

Hoover Starts Something.

But the announcement that he was a republican and would accept a republican nomination made on Tuesday by Mr. Hoover started a new chapter in Wisconsin politics.

Thousands of republicans displeased at the campaign of money and mud-slinging between Wood and Lowden have turned to the Hoover candidacy with enthusiasm.

MR. WELLS REMAINED AT CHAMBER REQUEST

In the Gazette article giving an account of the action of the board of the Chamber of Commerce in reference to the manager, Mr. Wells, the inference is apparent that Mr. Wells insisted on remaining until a successor was appointed. The fact is that it was at the suggestion of

FIVE EMPLOYERS SIGN PAINTERS' UNION DEMANDS

Signing up of five additional painting contractors to the wage demands of the Painters' Local 16, the outstanding feature of the walkout by union men here yesterday. Seven painting contractors are said to have met the demands of the men for 90 cents per hour, union officials said.

That a number of contractors turned out in numbers this morning was the statement of George Duller, secretary of the Janesville Building Trades council. Mr. Duller could not estimate the aggregate.

A denial was made at Labor Hall that the iron and sheet metal workers had reached an agreement with their employers, as was announced yesterday afternoon.

A conference of plumbers' union representatives with George S. Peckham and contractors erecting the new building for the penitentiary relative to the tie-up of the work on the structure, failed to bear fruit yesterday and a second meeting has been set for Tuesday.

Neither contractor nor men were willing to make an open statement to the public today. Aside from the announcement, "Everything looks bright from our side," expressed by the labor element, no expression was obtainable.

At the regular meeting of the Builders' Alliance, the organization of skilled builders and contractors of the city, will be held tonight. There is no doubt but what the walkout will be the most important topic for consideration.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

IN TRAINING.

He would be brave in dangers great,
He spoke of deeds he hoped to do.
Some day the stirring call of fate
Should try his soul and find it true;
In one big hour the strength he'd find
To earn the right to stand with kings—
But he was selfish and unkind,
And was untrue in little things.

He longed for glory, yet he failed
To train his spirit for the test.
He thought that when he was assailed,
His courage would be at its best;
He slipped along through life without
Heeding the laws which govern men,
Thinking, when danger called him out,
He would be brave and ready then.

But he had failed in petty ways;
And yielded to temptations small,
The careless round of many days
Had softened him, and when the call
For courage came to him at last,
The easy living of the past.
Left him no longer at his best.

Life is a training court for all!
Who would be strong in time of need,
Must prove his strength by duties small,
And not in one great shining deed;
Brave men are brave from day to day,
True men in everything are true,
Who would have courage for the fray,
Must be courageous, through and through.

voter's choice for president. He can write in Hoover's name. It will be a guide to the men who are to go to the convention. There is every likelihood that the un-instructed delegation will win. If it does and the majority of voters are for Hoover, the delegation will necessarily be guided by the decision of the people.

Mr. Hoover is not the candidate of the politicians. He is the candidate of a people tired of sacrificing business to politics. Mr. Hoover is a man of business. He is not radical nor is he a reactionary. He has had wide experience in handling big things.

If the delegates are free agents he will have a chance; if they are of the Kitchen and Fess brand, he will have no show in the convention. He has killed Hirsh Johnson's chance of being nominated, by dividing the delegation from California. That being the case we are assured that the Non-Partisan League brand of leaders will be eliminated.

POSTPONE WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Failure of Delaware to ratify the suffrage amendment and the refusal of Mississippi to change its original position against it has laid that program on the shelf for an indefinite period. Connecticut refuses, with New England stubbornness, to call a special session and the responsibility for defeat is thus divided between both parties. Not a southern democratic state ratified the amendment. The vote in favor came from the north. So that while one more state is needed to ratify, the majority of votes for the amendment has come from republicans.

The entrance of John M. Nelson into politics again as a candidate for the seat held by James G. Mohan, of Darlington, reminds one that all the shelf-work packages are coming down for a dusting since we are no longer in actual warfare.

Why get sea sick and go to Cuba? You can get the same kick at Juarez and run the chance of meeting Villa.

Having lost out on the referendum President Wilson seems to fear the initiative.

Marriage with Mary Pickford is just one moving picture after another.

Their Opinions

Republicans who are anxious that Wisconsin shall measure up to its opportunities in the republican national convention, which is to be held in Chicago in June, will do well to cast their vote next Tuesday for the candidates who, if elected, will go as un-instructed delegates.—Kenosha Herald.

Senator Lenroot has written a letter to Chairman West of the Republican State Central committee endorsing the list of what are known as "uninstructed delegates." Should the La Follette delegates be elected they will be very much alone at the national convention and for the best interests of the state it would seem that it would be better to elect the uninstructed delegation. This list of delegates is composed half of men of the conservative ideas and the other half of the progressive type. A good combination.—Anti-Journal.

DISLOYALTY IS PUNISHED.
It will be noted that the majority in the New York assembly which ousted the five members on the grounds of disloyalty to their country, was sufficiently large to be formidable. Even to those who have not closely followed the evidence submitted it must be plain that there was sufficient grounds for setting a precedent in this. The fact seems to be driven home that a man may criticize the government and demand that changes be made, without being a revolutionist. He may be a traitor or belong to any other political party and be American and believe in reforms within the government. That is one thing; another is to conspire for the establishment of a different basic kind of government, or treason.

By voice and vote, all during the war, it was shown evidence that seemed conclusive to the overwhelming majority of the assembly, that these five men had opposed every act tending to prosecute the war and had pledged obstruction to the draft, to the enlistment of soldiers, all in so doing had given aid and comfort to the enemy. It is about enough in New York state to disbar a traitor holding office. It may not be in Wisconsin.

MR. HOOVER AS A CANDIDATE.
Simeon D. Fess, republican member of congress and chairman of the republican congressional committee, is not like Mr. Hoover. He calls him an "internalist"—whatever that may be. Claude Kitchen, democrat of North Carolina, says Mr. Hoover has put himself beyond any democratic support. Others, party in first, representatives of the old idea that a party is first, ahead of patriotism, in fact, are not at all pleased with Mr. Hoover. Mr. Kitchen is fully representative of the typical southern democrat. Mr. Fess is sure that no man can be worth while unless he is a party worker. There are several million people in the United States who are not looking at the tendency from the same angles as Messrs. Fess and Kitchen.

It is to be noted that so shrewd a politician as Governor Philipp does not join the machine republicans in attempt to ridicule or belittle Mr. Hoover. One of republican congressmen summoned up a situation by saying that Hoover had many friends in the United States except among the delegates to the conventions. There is a great opportunity for the people of Wisconsin to stand where they stand. On the ballot to be voted on today there is opportunity to write the name of the every two weeks.

Backward Glimpses

FORTY YEARS AGO

April 2, 1880.—George Burpee, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burpee, died at his home in this city last night. He has been ill for quite a few weeks and his death was not unexpected. He was nineteen years old and was just entering a law school. The funeral will be held Sunday at the Congregational church.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

April 2, 1890.—The Georgia Minstrels performed to a large audience in Lappin's Hall last night.—The new aldermen elected yesterday are as follows: First Ward, Trulson; Second, Van Kirk; Third, McKey; Fourth, Childs; Fifth, Ryan. Those who will hold over are for the same wards, respectively; Rowe, Thoroughgood, Jackman, Horn and McLean.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

April 2, 1900.—Fifty men and a number of teams were put to work this morning cleaning the pavements down town, by Street Commissioner Fredericks. The West Milwaukee Street pavement was gone over and made to look like new. The brick cleans much easier than the block paving. The streets of the city are in good condition for this time of year.

TEN YEARS AGO

April 2, 1910.—There was an important meeting of the Industrial and Commercial club last night in the city hall. All the citizens were invited and a large number of them attended. They were enthusiastic and favored boosting the city and getting new firms here and making the city improve generally. They meet

Sacred Senate

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, April 2.—If the senate chamber contains the seats of the mighty, the senate galleries are certainly the seats of the motionless. You can travel pretty generally around the Senate and find the most interesting places, serious interested with you. You may not go wading in Niagara Falls or climb the outside of the Washington Monument without a permit, but aside from a few restrictions of this sort you can be yester evening alone almost anywhere. In the galleries of the senate, the American for once ceases to be the nearest human approximation to the perpetual motion, and becomes a rival of the circus stars in motion.

Front Rows Reserved
The first and second rows of this section are reserved for the president and vice-president respectively. Admission here must be by order of these executives. The president's chairs are rarely occupied except on days of unusual interest, or when some innocent friend of a senator wanders into the room.

Constitutes a mystery. The furnace is located in the ceiling. To do any work around home.

Is anything wrong with the furnace? I am quite worried about it.

As it isn't like him.

To do any work around home.

Is anything wrong with

the furnace? I am quite worried about it.

As it isn't like him.

To do any work around home.

Is anything wrong with

the furnace? I am quite worried about it.

The reason is plain.

The janitor of our department is not at all popular. In fact he is quite democratic and does not often impress us with the fact of his social and financial superiority. He has taken us out riding several times in his automobile and has introduced us to some of his friends.

He died in a real kind of old age, and his widow is now quite old.

She showed us his new spring overcoat and whispered to us confidentially that he could tell us where we could get one exactly like it for $4.50.

Really, some dealers have hearts.

We believe they have been stammered for years.

Some Room for Others.

Besides the sections allotted off for special classes there is space for men in general. There is a section for men and one for women.

Women, to whom the men are also admitted. At first we are told, the senate transacted its business behind closed doors. Then, at the insistence of the public, men were permitted to be present, but then it was not thought fitting, or necessary, to have spectators. The women, however, were allowed to be present.

The galleries are thickly populated these days in spring, in summer, and in the open season for tourists in Washington. Congress is not so entertaining as it once was. Members no longer wear canes and powdered wigs, take snuff, or draw revolvers on their adversaries. Neth-ertheless they did up to 1828.

Senate Is Prosy Place

Instead, on an ordinary day, the senate is a rather prosy place, where little boys run about with glasses and water and noise, and the girls sit about the windows and read.

Even the porters would occasionally sit down and hit, some pretty and dignified lawmaker on the nose.

Some of the senators became quite nervous about it. But now, with an abundance of printed notices, the guards are more or less quiet.

The present guard is a good one.

One of the few things which the guards do is to keep the visitors from the Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like to become more fleshly, as I am too thin. Can you tell me a way to become fat?

Also tell me a way to get mats out of the hair.

SUNRAY—Eat plenty of eggs, cream, fonda, and drink a quart of milk a day.

In some cases where the hair is badly nutrified it is necessary to cut out the bad places. To use the comb with great care will help some.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I met a boy two years my senior in high school. He says he loves me truly, but he doesn't show it. He goes with other girls and if I see him and say anything about it, he tells me she is a good cousin when she goes to school. Should I go with him or not? I can't forget him.

BROKEN-HEARTED—Both you and the boy are too young to think of love. Let him go with other girls when he wants to and go with other boys yourself. To have friends at your age is much more satisfactory than to have lover.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 40 and have been married several years, but haven't lived with my husband for some time. I have done everything I could to make him pleasant and now I do not feel that I am to blame. I will never try to live with her again.

Do you think it would be all right for me to have a judge tell whom I should take? I have shown him a picture of her once or twice a week. I am very lonesome. Or must I continue to live alone? Would you advise me to wait until I get a divorce before going out with a lady?

Chapping—This is a very afflictive disease to catch the cold in the skin. This is the first time I have ever admitted that it is possible to catch cold. I am poor, but I am honest.

If chapping is a cold in the skin, the logical way to prevent chapping would be by avoiding the possible cold air, wind, rain, or snow.

Chapping is that sort of thing. And the most effective way I know of avoiding all that sort of thing is by just exploring and never inspiring any more. If you want to live of course you are not going to avoid exposure you can't avoid it and live.

What's the use of talking about being "indoor" the old fogies always call the "indoor" exposure—if you are talking to live folks? It might be advisable to caution an idiot about freezing to death, or a drunken man; but it is a shame to give bad advice to sane people.

Fighting windmills is a sensible pastime compared with trying to avoid exposure to wind, cold, dampness, drafts.

One whose skin chaps should waste no energy or gray matter contriving schemes to avoid exposure. He should strive rather to insulate his skin against the insipitation of natural heat. A skin that kept nice and warm will not chap.

Water is an excellent heat conductor. Therefore if the skin is not robbed of its natural oil it will not chap. Too much soap, too much bathing, and the use of alcoholic lotions such as toilet water, bay rum, etc., are what cause chapping because these things dissolve out the skin oil and leave the skin unprotected against chilling.

Chapping is a "mild" dermatitis, which means skin inflammation or a mild eczema which is not severe enough to admit the use of "cathartical" liniments or soaps. Sut consult about the technical name. But remember it is a slight cold settled in the skin. After saying that I feel that I must go and take a cup of tea.

If the skin is rough, dry or harsh, if too much soap or water or alcohol is used from a slow metabolism, it is well to oil it after washing and drying thoroughly. Use any neutral or bland oil, such as liquid petroleum (purified mineral oil, paraffin oil), olive oil, sweet almond oil, cocoa butter or freshly made cold cream—not the "greasiness" sub-

BY PHILLIS PHILLIPS

SEEING THINGS FROM DAUDE

THEIR VIEWPOINT IS NOT EASY FOR MOTHER.

At breakfast this morning mother told me that dad had offered to let us have three months in Europe, that she had not any objection, but the most peculiar people, I think. They seem to forget sometimes that they were ever young and filled with longings—just these longings that mean so little and yet so much.

She was peevish with me because I almost painted with delight at the news, while we do now. We try to change the subject, but she keeps on and begins talking about them again. We like her. Is there any way of changing her conversation?

THREE CHUMS.

It is annoying to have to listen to about boys when you are not interested. I am a joker and tell your friend that the subject bores you.

She may not realize how much she does talk on that subject. Be as tolerant as possible because you may grow into the boy crazy stage yourself.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a girl for nine months and I dearly love her and want to marry her. She says she won't marry any one she has seen yet. She refused to go with me because she doesn't like me. She says she would rather be in my company. I know she thinks well of me. Her parents object to her going with me. Do you think a true heart will win?

BROWN EYES BOY.

A true heart will always win. Since the girl has given up the other man in order to be with you, her case looks favorable. Be true to her, but at the same time be careful not to sicken her with your love, and there is a good chance that you will win her.

On top of same filling and cake pile this same filling and syrup with chopped walnuts or

Maple Cream—A delicious confection is made by simply boiling maple syrup down until it "grains" when stirred briskly with a fork. A little sugar may be added to determine when it has been enough.

It should be poured into tiny shell molds which have been oiled, to harden.

Nuts or coconut may be added, but the syrup alone is delicious.

Maple Fruit Butter—Two bananas, sliced very thin, two and one-half cups finely chopped bananas, two cups corn flakes, three tablespoons butter, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-third teaspoon salt.

Mix chopped apples, banana and salt thoroughly, spread half the mixture in a shallow baking dish, sprinkle with half the spices, pour half the syrup over the fruit and dot with half the butter, cut into bits.

Next spread all the corn flakes against her whom he was pleased to call "faithless," and the brother whom he designated as "an unloved bandit."

Then did the fair lady call unto her her own private scribe and she indited a beautiful letter in her own hired handwriting, and in it said the noble warrior that "the mistake was mine, as you saw, by his gloriously scarred face, and she took all the blame and offered herself and her blood as sacrifice in the appeasement of his righteous wrath. Then she called her lost, faithful, half-blind, world-worn, old, and invalid, and drew her into the keeping. Now fetch me my golden goblet, lock the door and ask no questions."

And with this attended to, Elfreda, stationing the lady-of-all-work in the proper attitude with the goblet in readiness to catch her heart's blood, plunged a dagger in her bosom and died.

The faithful lady-in-waiting obediently caught the blood as it fell—seven great drops. But, oh, miracle—when she looked into the golden goblet what did she behold? Seven drops, indeed as when they fell, but the gaping wound of her beloved mistress—seven glorious blood-red diamonds!

But she was strictly honest. The letter and the diamonds, still in the golden goblet, were conveyed to Oscar at the appointed hour, and at sunset the two betrothed entered the room above the bier of the beautiful Elfreda.

Such was the legendary origin of the most wonderful diamonds in the world—a collection created by miracle; and, therefore, in keeping with their mystic origin, they assumed a prominent role in the history of nations, binding bargains and sealing treaties of peace.

But now the later legends had endowed the stones with occult powers which were imparted to their possessors—the renewal of youth, wealth, untold energy of mind and spirit.

Still the news of the unpremeditated marriage was a tonic all around—especially to the messenger. Oscar cut off his head and hung it out of the window to air, and then promptly got well in time that gave him grim satisfaction and his mother considerable uneasiness for her darling; and no sooner was Oscar able to sit on his horse than he directed his attention and his army

Dollar-Making Ideas

Money in the Compost Heap

By Eddie Cole Harrington

One of the surest money-making propositions that a wide-awake boy can take up is the compost heap, or lot, if he wants to go into the business on a larger scale. It has the advantage, too, of costing nothing to begin with, except the telephone.

But he has an instrument called a "tuner" by which he can change the range of his receiver to the same number of vibrations a second that the other fellow is sending. It's like running a station. A high note is sent out of more vibrations a second than a low one.

"Ever notice that a very shrill sound, if it is loud enough, hurts your ear? That's because the vibrations are rapid. And you have to send out vibrations in shrillness when the organist plays a very low note, you can feel the floor shake before your ear catches the sound? That's because the vibrations are slow."

"Wireless messages are sent by waves which travel in every direction like the ripples on the surface of pond when you throw a stone in it. They are received by an instrument which answers to that ripple, however far away it may be, and no matter how faint that ripple has become. Because they are so faint the receiving station has several instruments which increase without changing the number of vibrations.

This is the same principle as a pendulum. Try it. Fasten a stone to a long piece of string and set it

Getting the Wireless Call

By Eddie Cole Harrington

"How does the right man get a wireless message, Daddy, when there aren't any wires to call him with?"

"Why, Son, that's pretty complicated," his father replied. "He gets the message, of course, with the receiving apparatus, just as he does with the telephone."

But he has an instrument called a "tuner" by which he can change the range of his receiver to the same number of vibrations a second that the other fellow is sending. It's like running a station. A high note is sent out of more vibrations a second than a low one.

BILLY WHISKERS

by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

as the crowd poured into the tent where Billy, painted black and wearing his newly acquired horns, was cage. Billy had someone in front of his cage say:

"Oh, my! Look at this queer looking goat with three horns—don't be lookin' scarce!"

"Let's read the card on his cage and see what says about him. It says he was caught in the mountains of Guinea and that he is very ferocious. He looks it, doesn't he? How would you like to have him hook you?"

Billy heard one little boy say as it flew up and soared over their heads.

Billy's cage was among those upset, but before it went over the wind picked it up, carried it a few feet and then dropped it, smashing in the wooden side and setting Billy free.

For once the old saying came true.

"It is an old wives' tale that a body can't blow no good."

With a swish of his stubby tail, Billy was off down a side street, and as he ran he could hear above the peals of the thunder and the rushing of the wind, the lions roaring and the elephant trumpeting for fear amid the confusion and the commotion of the collapsed tent in the circus that Billy had escaped from for good.

(You can't guess where the next story takes Billy.)

LUMBER CAMPS CUT OFF BY UNSAFE ICE CONDITIONS

Ashland—The lumber camps on Stockton and Oak Islands are cut off from the mainland by unsafe ice conditions. The last teams that attempted the trip broke through the ice in a number of places. Dog teams are used by the people on Lake Pointe and Sand Islands to cross to the main shore, and men still take chances walking from the island camp to the mainland. For the last three weeks, however, communication with the islands will be uncertain. Doctors are placed on each island to take care of emergency accidents in the camps. It is the usual thing during the breakup of the ice in the spring to arrange for a period of complete isolation for which the ice is broken to go out into the open lake; it will completely cut off communication for at least a week, either by boat or otherwise. The lake ice is rapidly disintegrating.

FOCH SAYS WILSON'S POWER IS HARMONIOUS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, April 2.—President Wilson's statement to the house of representatives in Washington yesterday that Marshal Foch has no authority over the American troops on the Rhine was not called in full. The French foreign office, therefore, is not yet acquainted with its exact terms, but it was said in official circles that President Wilson's conception of the status of the American troops appealed to the French and the French official view names that the troops were in the occupied area under the armistice terms as the American senate had not ratified the peace treaty.

Thus far it was explained at the foreign office the commander of the American force of occupation has acted in harmony with the orders of the French.

"Js" Awarded to Five of High School Basketball Team

BANQUET CLOSES SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Superintendent Faust Dwells on High Qualities Developed Among Boys by Athletes.

BY FRANK SINCLAIR
Signaling the close of the 1919-20 basketball season of Janesville high school and in recognition of their work five men of the squad were presented with "Js" as a banquet to the team held at the school last night and attended by 50 people, including the faculty and persons affiliated with athletics in the city. Those honored were:

Clarence Hager, captain; Lovell Black student manager; Leo Powers; Toomer Gridley; and Lohret Tunstall.

The work of the team was highly praled by Superintendent of Schools H. H. Faust, who said:

Stands for Athletes

"I would just as soon become connected with a school that has no teachers rather than a school that has no athletes. In all of my basketball experience as an onlooker, this team has been the best in playing and in spirit. From every point of view it has been a highly successful season."

The superintendent told the young men that the benefit is derived, not alone in the honor which they might bring to the school, but in the high qualities of self-control, teamwork, courtesy and fair play developed for them in life.

Have Had Good Year

The team of the Janesville high school has had a good season, starting with a setback through the loss of their first game, but they hung together and came back with a swift recovery that took them through a series of successive victories. Not until they got to the Whitewater sectional tournament did they experience a slump, despite numerous injuries to the team and the handing up of the best of several weeks of training through illness. Though they did not get into the winning at the normal meet, they put up a strong fight and gained valuable experience.

Several members of the team will graduate this year. However the second team, and others of the regulars, including Captain Ted Hager, will be present again next season. This points to a strong combination that promises to give the school as strong, if not stronger, team for 1920-21.

As Coach O. W. Crabtree, who acted as toastmaster, said last night, he has worked the Blue team just as a squad during the season just closed. The advantage of this has been the development of a strong of second line. Next year when these seconds become firsts, the real effect will be seen.

Henningsen School Love

Vic Henningsen, former star of the Blues in years gone by, who reentered most of the games this season, spoke of his past which he has witnessed among the boys, not only in their home games but in traveling. He brought out the memories that they will retain of their experiences with the five and urged them not to forget their alma mater when they get out into college or other walks of life.

Short talks on their experiences in games away were recited by R. C. Gridley, Tunstall, Raubach, Black, Barrage, Powers and Lohret. Other speakers were George Bassford, principal of the high school; C. E. Zimmerman, faculty manager of the team; and Miss Hilda Misner.

The dinner, cooked by the girls of the domestic science classes, was excellent.

HOPE FOR BOXING IN N. Y. ABANDONED

Albany, N. Y., April 2.—Hope that the New York state legislature would enact legislation designed to legalize boxing in this state has faded away, according to yesterday's Senator James J. Walker, minority leader of the Senate.

Owing to the fact that no local park is available at the present time, the Orioles will find it necessary to confine the schedule to out-of-town games. All the players are men who have at least five years experience with the strongest semi-pros in this vicinity.

Manager Clifford Lengquist is seeking games now. His address is 23 Twelfth avenue, Rockford, Ill.

Here must I beg the Muse inspire

But stills, as I cramp and

This one, win little from Paranssus.

Might I but raise my Muse an altar

High on a mountain, 'twould

To spur the lips so prone to falter

And keep me gushing like a geyser.

For here would inspiration come

In carload lots, ad libitum.

But I must be content with less

Hiltons aren't handy to the press-

WILL PEACE COME FROM CONGRESS?

Constitutional Question Arises from Resolution Declaring War at End.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., Apr. 2.—Peace by joint resolution of congress instead of a treaty has raised such a serious question as to the relative powers of the president of the United States and the congress that it may require a decision by the supreme court of the United States to settle the dispute.

Republican leaders in the house have favored a resolution not only to end the war at an end but undertaking to communicate to a foreign government an ultimatum which under the constitution, heretofore only the executive branch of the government in its own discretion, has been privileged to send.

President Wilson will surely vote the joint resolution on the ground that it trespasses on the constitutional right of the executive to conduct the foreign relations of the country and to make treaties and agreements with foreign powers.

Is Such an Act Valid?

Congress may decide to pass the resolution over President Wilson's veto, and then a two-thirds vote in both houses is possible—something which is doubted because in the senate the treaty itself was beaten because enough democrats stood steadfastly by President Wilson and prevented ratification with the Lodge amendment which gave question of war to the senate.

Constitutional lawyers disinterested in the present dispute declare that if congress gave a two-thirds vote to the joint resolution when voted by the president it would not stand in the same case as a bill which becomes law that way but would be absolutely invalid.

May Get to Court.

If congress disputed the invalidity of the joint resolution under such circumstances, any citizen of the United States whose property is affected by the statement in the joint resolution that the war has come to an end may bring a case into court to determine the validity of that resolution. The executive branch of the government itself, through the department of justice, could bring such a case.

In as much as the supreme court has lately shown that when the public interest demands, it can dispose of cases without the delay of so many months which commonly attends cases on the calendar, it might be some time to get a decision in a few weeks.

President Holds Winning Hand.

But the effort to make peace by joint resolution is really deemed to fail simply because the president has so many means by which the measure can be defeated. People in administration quarters realize, though they may not be willing to admit it publicly, that there is much merit in the contention of so many members of congress relative to the implied right of the legislative branch of the government to declare war. If congress alone can declare war, why can't congress be the same war to an end?

That simple question is what is troubling lawyers on both the democratic and republican sides of the controversy. The constitution does not say anything about the power of congress to end wars but it does specifically give the president the right to make treaties and submit them to congress for approval. The point has never before arisen. It will establish a precedent.

Congress Tells President.

On the other hand the republican leaders have included in their joint resolution the proviso that the president is instructed to communicate to the German government that unless Germany concedes the demands of the American congress and bestows the same rights and privileges to America as would have been granted by the treaty of Versailles with reference to property and trade advantages, commercial intercourse with Germany will be suspended after the lapse of the 45 day time limit.

In other words congress undertakes to dictate the nature of a communication to a foreign government while the constitution says the president alone shall have that right.

Taking This Farther.

The president has swum from one extreme in which he sought to make a treaty without taking into account the sentiment in congress to the other extreme in which congress will, if the joint resolution is passed, attempt to dictate how the president shall conduct foreign relations. The president provided on political lines is producing constitutional tangles unknown in American history and is slowly building up a bitterness of feeling that may make it difficult to decide any question except through the route of war, but nevertheless reflects the views of the country. Only the calm and disinterested judgment of the supreme court of the United States set up to say what laws are valid or invalid can now settle the dispute to the satisfaction of everybody concerned unless the republicans, faced with laws it's complicating the joint resolution and President Wilson sends the treaty back to the senate with a statement showing his willingness to compromise on reservations.

HOPES FARM BUREAU WILL BRING CITIES AND FARMS CLOSER

COUNTY TRUE TO OLD ADAGE

"Leap" Year Marriages Run Nearly 100 Per Cent More Than in 1919—Eleven Couples Apply for Licenses in Last Two Days Keeping County Clerk Howard Lee Busy.

"Some method must be found to draw the farmer and the city dweller closer together," and we hope that the farm bureau can bring it about."

This statement was made by John Acheson, Monmouth county, N. J., organizer for the Rock County Farm Bureau movement now being held in discussing the campaign during an interview.

The misunderstandings now existing between the city folks and the farmers should be cleared away, he said. "I believe that a campaign of education is the only way."

The farmer is willing to take $2 for his grain or seven cents for his milk, but he does not like to see the city people paying so much more than they should.

Reduced Costs.

"Labor is getting $10 a day. Under present living costs that may be necessary for us to find a method whereby we may eliminate the unnecessary middleman and have delivery direct, or almost direct, between the producer and the consumer. The city man can live so much more cheaply and wages could be reduced. The farmer would be able to purchase his necessary supplies for less money and be permitted to produce cheaper."

Drop in Food Production.

"Conditions are such now on the farm that we cannot expect the farmer boy to remain with his father and work long hours when he can go to the city and earn more and get much larger pay. This will cause a drop in the production of food this summer, and I warrant you it will mean a greater drop next year."

"Why only the other day I was out on a farm and there saw one of the most beautiful white drays being used to implement white behind her came her husband, sewing the seed. They cannot get any help. The woman was refined in appearance and speech. She apologized for her clothes, dirty from the work in the fields. Both of them seemed to care afterwards that they are going to sell their farm and go to the city. Do you blame them? I don't. Do you think that woman, tired after such a day's work, can cook a good meal for her husband?" One of the first things the bureau campaign is to come in from the fields and find his wife cheerful and neat with a good meal ready and a nice, neat home.

"We are hoping through the farm bureau, national, state and county, to eliminate some of the handicaps under which the farmer is laboring."

FINE WEATHER HITS TOBACCO HANDLING

Janesville tobacco warehouse and commission men are experiencing a shortage of labor. The causes are attributed mainly to the arrival of the crop for final preparation here due to the need of getting workers. Directly this causes a shortage of women labor. With the coming on of fine weather and housecleaning time. Ordinarily, tobacco men explain, women are glad to have the opportunity to work in the warehouses in winter, but with the approach of spring there is a material falling off in the number who take this sort of work.

Between 50 and 60 percent of the Rock county crop has left the farm, it is said. Prices paid the grower were practically the same in 1916.

Sorters are receiving $1.75 per hundred pounds, which is five cents more than a year ago.

There's always a saving on Wirthmor Waists

There's always a saving on Wirthmor Waists, for the many great economies of the Wirthmor Plan in buying materials, in the making and in the selling of Waists insures that.

Consider these facts: that for several months past, cotton fabrics have cost from 300 to 400% over pre-war days; that trimmings have advanced proportionately; that labor costs have gone up excessively and then you'll wonder as we do, how the prices have kept down so long.

That the price must now be advanced to maintain the quality is not in the least bit surprising; it's surprising rather, that this did not occur a long time since for during these past many months Wirthmor Waists could readily have been sold at $2.00; in fact, would have represented splendid values at that price.

The New Wirthmor Waists Priced at $2.00

$2.00 is the lowest price at which a worthy Waist can now be sold. Up to this price the Wirthmor folks will hereafter build Waists that will be just as superior to all others at the price as have the Wirthmors in the past at the former price. For these things the word Wirthmor always will stand; style insurance; quality insurance; economy insurance; the positive assurance that you are receiving the very ultimate in value for your expenditure.
